Note: From 1961-1973, Hondo (nom de plume, or alias, or AKA Peter Cedarstacker) wrote a social satire column for the Comfort News. The fictional town of Cedar Creek and all of its characters eventually became the real town of Luckenbach and all of its characters (and Luckenbach has some real characters!) The MOON reserves a special corner for Peter Cedarstacker, Writer, as a corner of wit and human insight for us today.

CEDAR CREEK CLIPPINGS

The Spites took me an Mama, that's my wife on my mother-in-laws side, hunting' Sunday. They'r nice folks. Mr. And Mrs. Spite both have huntin' hats, huntin' coats with leather patches everywhere, huntin' pants that look alike, 'cept Mrs. Spite's are larger, huntin' boots and I guess, huntin' underwear. Mr. Spite has a bullet belt that goes plum round himself, and so do the bullets. They have look alike huntin' knives, too. One says His and the other says Hers. Never saw that 'cept on doors. They'r trimmed in mink and have ermine tails a danglin. They each carried a canteen that was plastic and full of hot coffee, a camp stool and a piller to set on. They each had big bino bonicul field glasses and microscopes on their guns. Their bullets were _____ that long, and Mr. Spite carried a survival kit, because he got lost in Germany onct. By the things in it you'd think he was goin to build a building. Mrs. Spite dropped her purty gun twict cause her gloves were too thick. I had to stoop over to pick it up. She carried her water-proof matches in a water-proof can with her compass. It has a diamond, bigern, on each of the four points and its gold. Mama likes gold and diamonds too.

When we left the car that was secretly hidden in the brush from the deer it looked like a bunch of people struggling to a football game. Cept we didn't have no banners. I knew Mrs. Spite wouldn't see nuthin. All the deer knew she was in the pasture cause she smelled so sweet and different.

It cost the Spites $3.25 for just one day for me and Mama to hunt. Three bucks for me and two bits for Mama. You see the fellow that owned the seventy five acres knew Mama and that she wouldn't kill no deer cause she hunts too tankish*.
