Note: From 1961-1973, Hondo (nom de plume, or alias, or AKA Peter Cedarstacker) wrote a social satire column for the Comfort News. The fictional town of Cedar Creek and all of its characters eventually became the real town of Luckenbach and all of its characters (and Luckenbach has some real characters!) The MOON reserves a special corner for Peter Cedarstacker, Writer, as a corner of wit and human insight for us today.

-Becky Crouch Barrales

CEBAR CREEK CLIPPINGS

Plans are being laid by the chamber to celebrate Arbor Day. We all like Arbor Day because there's no rule when to have it. We'll sandwich it in whenever we feel a celebration comin' on. Then's when we plan to plant prickly pear and poison ivy at the Park Side Road. We'll have it to our ownself then more.

The beer part of the Post Office has had more customers this winter than ever, due to the long cold spell. We all go there in the evenin' and set 'round the wood stove whether we drink beer or not. Me and Mama are very shy 'bout that so we always split one and make it last two hours. Settin' by someone else's fire beats choppin wood. Kinda like settin by a girl friend stead of a wife. Fire seems warmer.

There's a barrel of soda crackers by the stove at the Post Office and ever once in a while I sneak one to go with my split beer. But not anymore. Mr. Wurstbottom, postmaster, put a mouse trap in the cracker barrel and it whacked me on the fingers just when he was lookin. Everyone laughed. Everyone that is 'cept me. Made me so mad I just quit stealing' his old crackers. Stale anyway.

Whenever we come home from the Post Office Beer Joint I always act like I'm doin' a few last minit chores so Mama will warm the bed up. Then I move her over and lay in that big warm spot. Fun.
